18th ICP Biennial Meeting in Amsterdam

Plans are well underway for a joint meeting with the ICP and the European Prosthodontic Association (EPA), in Amsterdam, September 4-7, 2019. The conference will be held at the premier meeting venue Beurs van Berlage Conference Centre, in the heart of Amsterdam, known for its artistic heritage, elaborate canal system, narrow houses with gabled facades, legacies of the city's 17th-century Golden Age.

Greetings to all our ICP members!

Now that we, starting from 1st January 2018, take over the Co-Presidency of ICP from Mario Bresciano and Brian Fitzpatrick, it is a good occasion to look back on their successful Presidency and to look forward to the coming period.

Mario Bresciano and Brian Fitzpatrick, heading their team of Officers and Counselors, did a lot of work behind the scenes and out of direct sight of the ICP membership. What stands out most are the implementation of new grants and prizes for young researchers and members of ICP interested in doing research, together with professionalized procedures to apply for these grants. Another big issue was the update of standard operating procedures for the ICP board, which intensified the professionalization of the organization. Speaking of professionalization, we take a moment to reflect on the retirement of Eben Yancy, who as director of RES, was responsible for many years as the professional back-up of ICP. Although we have full trust in his committed successor Lynn Reeves, the ICP will miss his wisdom and engagement. Eben is owed ICP’s gratitude for all the work he has done for the College.

Most visible in the past two years was, of course, our biannual meeting in Santiago, Chili. It was the first occasion that the ICP held a conference in South America. The Scientific Program Committee, headed by Dr. Dean Morton on behalf of the ICP, and Dr. Eugenio Neito Grez on behalf of our local partner Sociedad de Protesis y Rehabilitacion Oral de Chile (SPROCh) – composed a program that addressed mainly two topics: one was the role and use of digital technologies in prosthodontics, the other was focusing on providing simple and minimal invasive treatment interventions to improve patients’ oral health-related quality of life. These two topics suggest covering two ends of the prosthodontic spectrum, but were brought under the conference theme of “Less is More” in a very natural way as belonging together. Besides an interesting scientific program, the organizers provided us with excellent social outings and activities.

Usually, the even years show a quieter international scientific presence of ICP, but in 2018, ICP will participate in a combined scientific conference in conjunction with the Italian Academy of Prosthetic Dentistry (AIOP). ICP accepted an invitation of AIOP to participate in a two-day congress on Occlusion, Treatment Planning and Full-Arch on Implants in Riccione, Italy from April 13th to 15th, 2018. Another important activity, in which ICP is involved, is the Young Prosthodontic Educators workshop that will be held in Karlsruhe, Germany in October 2018. This initiative of the Chief Editor of the International Journal of Prosthodontics Dr. George Zarb, who chairs this workshop together with the director of the Dental Academy for Continuing Professional Development in Karlsruhe, Dr. Winfred Walther, is supported in part by the ICP, as proof of its engagement in not only research but also in educational matters. Through the Education Grants program, the ICP provides a portion of the financial support required for this unique workshop, which allows talented young prosthodontic educators to work together with a faculty of renowned senior prosthodontic scholars from all over the globe.

In 2018 your team comprising the Co-Presidents, Scientific Program Chairs, related Committees and RES, will be working diligently to continue to place the essential pieces together as we head toward the 18th International ICP Biennial Meeting, to be held together with the European Prosthodontic Association (EPA) in September 2019 in Amsterdam, the Netherlands.

Education & Research

Through the dues, donations, support, and dedication of its members, the ICP continues to provide resources to supplement continuing education and growth of the specialty and discipline of prosthodontics. The ICP is proud to announce that applications are now being accepted for the following grants, as developed by the ICP Education and Research Committee, and announced at the 2017 meeting in Santiago, Chile:

Ivoclar Vivadent / ICP Research Fellowship in Dental Restorative Material

Applications are now being accepted for the 2018 Ivoclar Vivadent / ICP Research Fellowship. Deadline date for applications is February 15, 2018. Developed in 2015, this collaborative program combines financial support with mentorship of the student, underwriting the potential for lifelong impact for the student, the mentor, and the discipline of prosthodontics. Visit the ICP Fellowship page for additional information regarding eligibility requirements, mentor recommendations and application forms.

ICP Research Grants

The ICP Research Grants Program is once again underway, with applications being accepted until March 15, 2018. Research Grant applicants must be an early career prosthodontic resident/post-graduate student researcher, with support from their supervisors, who also need to be a member of the ICP. Students are then encouraged to present the results of their research at ICP meetings. For additional information, visit the ICP home page and click on the ICP Research tab.

ICP Educational Grants

The ICP has initiated a new Educational Grants program, intended to promote and nurture global education programs and workshops that serve to advance the knowledge of early career prosthodontic educators, academics, clinicians and leaders in areas related to prosthodontics. Individuals are eligible to apply to the EGP provided the individual submitting the application is a member of the ICP. The deadline for Educational Grants Applications is March 15, 2018. For additional information, visit the ICP home page and click on the Education Grant Program tab.

ICP Webinars – Residents in the ICP Global Classroom

The ICP webinar program continues to expand with many thanks to the ICP Professional Relations Committee and Education and Research Committees. Two very well run webinars are currently posted on the ICP Members Page, and the webinar program continues to expand in 2018. Register to join the next live webinar, on February 16, 2018 at 6PM CEST Geneva time, “Ageing – A Biological, Psycho-social and Economic Challenge”, featuring Presenter: Frauke Müller, Panellist: Sreenivas Koka, and Moderator: Limor Avivi-Arber. For additional information, visit the ICP home page and click on the Education & Research / Webinars.
2017 Santiago Poster Award Winners:

The Poster Awards program is held in conjunction with the ICP’s biennial scientific meeting and continues to experience substantial growth in number of submissions. A total of 87 posters were submitted at the 2017 biennial meeting in Santiago, Chile, with 10 $1000 Poster prizes awarded. View the Poster Award Winners for 2017 on the ICP website. Congratulations! The ICP encourages potential Poster Presenters to visit the 2019 Amsterdam website to submit their abstract for consideration via the Call for Paperstab. If you are not current with annual dues or have not yet joined the ICP, please do so before submitting an abstract. We would like to recognize the 2018 Poster winners below. Congratulations!

The seventh biennial IJP/Karlsruhe Workshop for Young Prosthodontic Educators

The seventh biennial IJP/Karlsruhe Workshop for Young Prosthodontic Educators Development in Karlsruhe, Germany, October 7-10, 2018. The Workshop will once again be funded by Nobel Biocare, with additional support from the Australian and New Zealand Prosthodontic Society and Quintessence Publishing Company. The International College of Prosthodontists (ICP) continues to support the workshop initiative by providing limited and competitive assistance for participants.

These unique workshops are the result of the pro bono commitment of an international faculty of clinical educators selected from the IJP’s editorial team. The workshops are organized by Professors George Zarb (Canada), Winfried Walther (Germany), John Hobkirk (United Kingdom), and Iven Klineberg (Australia) and seek to nurture younger clinical academics in their pursuit of scholarly leadership in the discipline. The selection is limited to 36 new and past participants for free registration for the 4-day program. All participants will be responsible for their own travel and accommodation arrangements and expenses.

Participation criteria

- New candidates should be early or mid-career, half-time or full-time clinical teachers; and preferably ICP members.
- Each candidate’s application should include a current and concise one-page CV and a letter of endorsement from their program/discipline Head or Faculty Dean.
- All application letters should be mailed to the IJP office (ijp.prostho@utoronto.ca).

Registration deadline: June 1, 2018

The applicant list will be shared with the ICP administration office (icp@icp-org.com). Applications for financial assistance from the ICP should be separately and directly addressed to the ICP office.

Link to the ICP/YPE Workshop webpage for more details and registration form.

Santiago Chile hosted the 17th Biennial Meeting of the ICP, held in conjunction with the Chilean Prosthodontic Association. Between Sept 6th and 9th some 600 colleagues gathered to exchange knowledge, form friendships and renew existing relationships. Days before members of the board had been hard at work investing both time and effort in ensuring the smooth running of the College now and in the future- no small task in an organisation representing more than 80 countries. Co- Presidents Brian Fitzpatrick and Mario Bresciano together with committee members are to be congratulated.

From the outset, the buzz of animated discussions suggested that this was going to be a meeting to remember. It certainly was! The theme of the conference was ‘Less is More’ epitomized by the opening presentation by Frank Spears who could not be present but sent a beautifully illustrated recorded lecture. He was available for questions by satellite link at some unearthly local time for him. The pattern of presentations followed the established scheme with a single opening session subsequently dividing into three parallel sessions. Any concerns that some of the parallel sessions might not be well attended quickly evaporated: it was standing room only quite frequently. The last session on Saturday morning reverted to the opening arrangement and was just as well attended, a tribute to the quality of the lecturers and the enthusiasm of the audience.

Implants figured prominently in the program as to be expected, but it was encouraging to note that conventional prosthodontics was not ignored. Naturally presentations showed marked differences in what was considered ‘Less’ yet the diversity added zest to the gathering. As usual, lively discussions could be heard outside the lecture hall symbolizing interest, enthusiasm and a complement to Dean Morton, Program Chairman.

With 115 oral presentations concentrated into a short period, it was a remarkable achievement that few sessions ran late. Poster presentations were reduced in number, but not in quality, giving the judges a difficult task. The involvement of Ivoclar in sponsoring research is acknowledged with thanks.

The financial report demonstrated that the College was flourishing and this year’s commercial sponsorship was record breaking. From the Welcome Reception, until the Saturday afternoon’s excursion to a winery, the social side reverberated with sound demonstrating that interaction between enthusiastic colleagues (to say nothing of their spouses) never ebbed. The inauguration of new Co-Presidents Nicola Zitzmann and Nico Creugers established a new pattern with this year’s Master of Ceremonies being Iven Klineberg.

Perhaps one of the most remarkable features of this meeting was the vast distances that some colleagues travelled to attend. Over 30 hours of flying was not uncommon. RES rose to the occasion as usual for which we extend our thanks. We look forward to our next meeting in Amsterdam in September 2019.

ICP Interim Board of Councilors Meeting
