Terms of Reference for Advisory Council of Organizational Members

Preamble

The role of Organizational Members is important to the objectives of the International College of Prosthodontists (ICP) in promoting the specialty of prosthodontics throughout the world. The spirit and objectives of ICP are outlined in the preamble to the ICP Constitution. At the heart of ICP is the strength of the Constituent Member body and as it continues to grow and evolve the Officers and Councilors (hereafter referred to as the Board of Councilors) will need the advice and assistance of the Organizational Members. This also will provide the international prosthodontic organizations with opportunities for meaningful input into the work of the ICP and an influence on the future of the specialty of prosthodontics. To this end, a standing committee, the Advisory Council for Organizational Members (ACOM) has been established to provide the Board of Councilors advice and assistance from the Organizational Members, and to provide a conduit for the Organizational Members to have input to the Board of Councilors of the ICP.

ACOM, as a standing committee serves in an advisory role to the Board of Councilors of the ICP and is directly responsible and accountable to the Board. The Board of Councilors will charge ACOM to undertake tasks and ACOM may bring matters of interest to the Board of Councilors for consideration. ACOM participation includes delegates from all Organizational Membership countries, based on a proportional representation system. Countries with Organizational Membership will elect delegates to ACOM based on the number of constituent members a country holds. ACOM delegates will elect a Chair and a Secretary. ACOM will meet at least biennially in conjunction with the ICP biennial international conference. The ACOM Chair will present reports/recommendations to the Board of Councilors at this meeting.

The Terms of Reference for ACOM should always be interpreted in tandem with the Constitution of the ICP. In all cases, the Constitution of the ICP carries precedence over the Terms of Reference of ACOM.
